FINAL AGREEMENT DELAYED BY CASE

Consolidation of Light Companies
Depends Upon Decision in Receiver's Suit.

MATTER UNDER ADVISEMENT

Plans Made to Install New Machinery
In Plant of Seymour Gas & Electric Light Co.

Extensive plans for the improvement of the plant of the Seymour Gas & Electric Light Company have been made, and it is believed that the bondholders of that company have completed arrangements to take over the franchise of the Seymour Public Service Company. Earl Potter, of Chicago, an expert electrician, is here to superintend the installation of the new machinery which has been purchased.

It has been known for some time that a move was on foot to consolidate the two companies, and several months ago the representatives of the companies entered into a working agreement whereby the construction work of the new company could be continued. While no announcement was made public at that time or has been made since, it was the general opinion that the bondholders would take over the franchise of the new company and the properties of the old company. The merger of the two companies has been delayed, however, on account of a suit pending in the Scott circuit court regarding the settlement of the affairs of the old company, which went into the hands of a receiver several months ago. The evidence in the case was heard some time ago, and it is expected that the court, who has had the matter under advisement, will announce his decision within a short time. As soon as the affairs of the old company are finally settled, it is believed the bondholders will consummate their agreement with the Seymour Public Service Company.

According to the terms of the franchise, the new lighting system must be installed and ready for operation by November 15, or the franchise is void. This clause would apply in case the franchise was sold the same as if held by the original grantees.

It is understood that a large amount of new and modern electrical machinery will be installed in the plant here at once, and that the company will be able to furnish the city lights in compliance with the terms of the franchise. The new poles will be placed in position so that the lights may be hung as ordered by the council when the franchise and contract was given to the Seymour Public Service Company.

lie Service Company. The present building of the old company is also inadequate and workmen will soon begin to enlarge and improve the plant.

It is believed that the company which will operate the light plant here will be composed of a number of bondholders of the old company and several other parties who have never had any interest whatever in either of the light companies in Seymour. The organization of the company has not yet been given out to the public, and who the officers of the company will be.

The Seymour Public Service Company intended to have the plant in operation by the middle of this month, and when the franchise was given, stated that they thought that they would be able to furnish light and power by the middle of this month. This would probably not appear possible if an entirely new plant was to be erected, as it would require several months to construct the building and install the machinery.

The final agreement will no doubt be closed within a short time, after the case which is pending in the court is settled and the city will be given a new and modern lighting system.

WHITE RIVER

Still Rising, But No Serious Damage
Will Be Done.

White river is still rising, and while it is out of its banks it is not believed that serious damage will be done. The Muscatatuck has about reached its height and while much of the low farm lands are under water the farmers say that very little of the corn will be washed away by the flood. The greatest damage was done in the extreme southern part of the state, where acres of corn fields were completely covered with water to the depth of several feet.

The smaller streams in the county are receding, having reached their height Thursday night. J. Robt. Blair, the local weather observer, reports that there was a total rainfall of six and one half inches this week. This is the highest record that has been recorded for several years.

Orval Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunt, of this city, and Miss Elmira Story, daughter of Charles Story, of Beloit, Wis., were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride. The wedding was a brilliant social affair and was attended by many guests. The bride and groom received many beautiful presents from their friends.

Mr. Hunt left here Friday for Beloit, but did not inform his friends here of the purpose of his visit. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt visited in Bedford before returning home, and did not arrive here until about 10 o'clock Thursday evening. They will reside in Seymour.

CANTON CELEBRATES

First Marriage Since Its Organization
Two and One-half Years Ago.

At the conclusion of the regular Canton meeting Thursday evening the various members marched to the home of Mr. John Klein on West Brown street, to assist him in celebrating his recent marriage. Mr. Klein is the first member of the Canton to be married since its organization over two and one half years ago, so the boys were especially anxious to make it a real red letter occasion, which they quite successfully did.

The first event after arrival was a miscellaneous shower by the various members of the Canton. The value of these presents was not to exceed a nominal sum. They consisted principally of soap, shoe polish, sardines, milk and various other smaller but none the less useful articles. These were collected in a large bag and poured upon the head of the recent benedict while seated, from a height of several feet. A can of "Old Dutch Cleanser" caught him at the side of the head, but otherwise he came out unscathed. After each of the presents had been opened and thoroughly commented upon, the Captain, in behalf of the Canton, presented Chev. Klein with a fine mission rocker. He responded and in a few well chosen words thanking the Canton for the remembrance.

The evening was spent in telling jokes, singing and having a general good time. Excellent refreshments were served and the guests departed at a late hour, taking the groom with them. They marched, company front headed by the newlywed who wore a paper lamp shade as a hat, to the New Lynn Hotel. A box was secured and from it Mr. Klein made a speech to the crowd at the hotel, telling them how thankful he was to be alive. He concluded his remarks, bowed repeatedly, and the march was resumed. Stops were made at various places, including the B. & O. station and city jail. After being permitted to bid all goodnight while in front of the city hall, John was given a twenty foot start and informed that if he was over taken by a single man before he crossed Tipton street the performance of the evening would be repeated. He was an easy winner, breaking the world's record for the first hundred yards, and from all reports he was still running when he reached home.

The Canton members then dispersed and everything was quiet at 3 a. m.

Bids Too High.

At a special meeting of the council Wednesday night bids were opened for the proposed sewer from the street in front of the new hospital to the Pine street sewer, a distance of about 400 feet. Bids were received from Joseph Burkart and James DeGolyer, but both exceeded the estimate which was about $167.50. The bids exceeded $200 and were both rejected. The council will meet tonight again to take further action regarding the sewer.

SPELLING BEES WILL SOON BEGIN

Preparations For State Wide Contest
Inaugurated By Dr. Robt. Alely
Are Made.

LOCAL CONTESTS COME FIRST

Then District and Later Final Test
For the State Prize Will Be Held.

The state wide spelling contest inaugurated by state superintendent, Alely will begin in December. It is hoped that the contests will excite an interest that will result in making Indiana pupils the best spellers in the country. The old time interest in spelling bees it is expected will be revived throughout the state.

Some warm contests are looked for in Jackson county.

The township, town and city contests will be held from December 19 to 31; county contests January 16 to 31, 1911; district contests February 15 to 28; date for state contest to be set later.

Participants in the county contests will be the three best spellers in the local contests. The three best spellers in each county will be eligible to participate in the district contests and the three best spellers in each district will be eligible participants in the state contest.

A written test is advised as a part of the local contest. One-half of the pupils, those who make the lowest grades in the written test, are to be dropped. The contest is to be continued orally until the winner is declared.

The following rules have been prepared at the state superintendent's office to govern contests:

1. The contestants shall have but one trial at each word. Repetition without change to be regarded as no trial.
2. Webster's New International Dictionary shall be authority in pronunciation.
3. If a word is spelled more than one way the spelling book shall be the authority.
4. Contestants shall not be asked to give abbreviations or definitions.
5. Pronouncers shall give the meaning of all words pronounced alike but spelled differently.
6. The word shall be pronounced by the contestant before he spells it.
7. Capitals shall be given as found in the spelling book.
8. No whispering shall be allowed during any of the contests.
9. In case all of the contestants who are on the floor fail to spell a word, the word shall be dropped, all who missed it shall re-enter the contest and the next word be pronounced.
10. Contestants from the same school shall not stand near each other in the local contest, nor shall contestants from the same township, town, or city stand near each other in the county contest.

High school pupils are barred.

EVANGELIST COMING.

Will Begin Meetings at Christian Church Sunday.

Evangelist Roy L. Brown, of Bellfontaine, Ohio, will begin a series of meetings at the Central Christian church next Sunday, Oct. 9. He is one of the strongest preachers in the Christian church and it is said his sermons are very interesting and abound in clear and forceful arguments.

EVANGELIST ROY L. BROWN.

He devotes all his time to evangelistic work and now has engagements that will keep him busy until late in 1911. He has held successful meetings in many of the large churches of the country and the local church is glad it can give the people of Seymour an opportunity of hearing him. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the meetings.

Reception.

The members of the First M. E. church entertained with a reception Thursday evening for Rev. Hayden H. Allen and family and for Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Asbury. The Rev. Mr. Allen will leave Saturday for Washington, where he will become pastor of the First Church, and Dr. Asbury comes to Seymour to take the pastorate of the church here. Several hundred of the members of the church besides a large number of visitors were present. J. H. Matlock presided, and introduced Frank S. Jones, who spoke upon behalf of the congregation, and U. F. Lewis, representing the citizens. Addresses were also made by the departing pastor, his successor, and by the Rev. F. M. Huckleberry, pastor of the First Baptist church.

During the evening an excellent musical program was given which was greatly enjoyed. A piano duet was given by Mrs. W. G. Reynolds and Mrs. W. F. Pfaffenberger which was highly appreciated. Miss Mary Teckemeyer gave a beautiful selection on the violin accompanied by Miss Flossie Allen. One of the numbers of the program was a vocal solo by Miss Blanch Milhous, one of the most accomplished vocalists in the city. Little Miss Loreta Bollinger also pleased the audience with a vocal solo which was given in her usual splendid manner. While light refreshments were served several other musicians presided at the piano.

SUPREME COURT DECISION

Holds Druggist Is Responsible For His Clerk.

The supreme court Thursday refused to reverse the conviction of a druggist for the illegal sale of whiskey by his clerk in the druggist's absence for either of the reasons that it was done by the clerk in the owner's absence or that the indictment stated the name of the purchaser as W. E. Clark instead of giving the full Christian name.

Lindsay O. Walters owned a drug store in the town of Chrisney, in Spencer county, and William P. Smoot, was employed in his store as a clerk. In the month of August, 1908, W. E. Clark bought 25 cents' worth of whiskey of Smoot, the clerk in the Walters drug store, Clark having applied for the whiskey at the request of a man named Bays who was working for the citizens of the community as a detective.

Walters was convicted of illegal sale of liquor in a smaller quantity than a quart without a prescription from a physician or a written application by the purchaser. He appealed, saying the indictment was defective in not giving the Christian name of Clark.

Judge Montgomery, speaking for the court, says: "We are not warranted in presuming from the mere charge that appellant sold liquor in violation of law, and certainly can not assume that so many illegal sales were made about the same time to the Clark family that the identification of the purchaser, W. E. Clark, would not enable the seller to make suitable preparations for defense."

The court also holds that the druggist keeping whiskey for sale under the legal restrictions, must at his peril employ only such clerks and employees and put them in charge of the whiskey as will not violate the laws under which he is allowed to sell it.

Judge Jordan dissents from so much of the opinion as holds that a druggist can be held criminally responsible for the acts of his servant in his absence and without his knowledge or order.

The TRIUMPH Air Blast

Is the latest and greatest invention for producing heat from soft coal. Practically all fuel can be turned into heat and utilized in the room—no waste of gases, no waste of soot, no waste by having ashes banked against the fire pot. When we say we can save you one-third of your fuel bill is putting it mildly. The construction of the fire pot is so arranged that its radiation surface is double that of any other soft coal stove made. It is the only fire pot where it is absolutely impossible for ashes to bank against; the only fire pot where hot air has a complete circulation from top to bottom. The perfect fitting ash pit door, the ball bearing grate, the solid cast body are all features worth your while to consider in buying a stove. We will be glad to demonstrate the construction of the Triumph Air Blast and prove up what we say.

Advocate Medical Examination of School Children.

Legislation providing for compulsory medical examination of all public school children of the state and for action against the spread of the disease known as ophthalmia neonatorum, which, it is said, has impaired the eyesight of thousands of school children in Indiana, will be introduced at the next session of the general assembly as a result of resolution passed Thursday afternoon at the closing session of the eighth annual convention of the Indiana state Nurses' Association, held at Indianapolis.

Statistics presented at the meeting showed that forty per cent. of the defects of sight and hearing among the school pupils of Indiana are due to lack of medical inspection and could have been prevented had the authorities taken proper steps. The resolutions urge the passage of bills making the erection of sanitary school buildings compulsory. Committees to arouse public sentiment in favor of the proposed bills were appointed.

The resolutions are the result of an address delivered at the morning session by Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health.

A RUNAWAY FREIGHT IN A FREAK WRECK Pushes House Into Street Without Upsetting Things.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 7.—The two-story frame house of Caleb C. Stover was lifted from its foundation by a runaway freight car early this morning and landed in the middle of Mulberry road with its sleeping occupants. The car, which was heavily loaded, broke away from the freighthouse of the Pennsylvania railroad and ran down grade into the Stover home. Mrs. Stover, the only member of the family awake at the time, was thrown violently to the floor and rendered unconscious. Her three boys, her father and a daughter, all of whom were in bed, were uninjured. The pictures stayed on the walls, the lamps moved a little on the tables but did not upset, the clock in the parlor kept on running, but the one in the kitchen stopped exactly at 12:30; the house cat left hurriedly and the dog's sleep was interrupted. The articles in the kitchen and cellar were ruined. In other parts of the house, however, they were not disturbed.

DID REAPER KING STEAL LAURELS?

Cyrus H. McCormick Accused of Robbing Father of Fame.

RELATIVES IN CONTROVERSY.

Compile Evidence to Show That Son Should Not Be Placed in National Hall of Fame—Patent Rights Said to Have Been Bestowed by Parent. Witnesses of First Deed All Dead.

When Cyrus H. McCormick took to himself the credit for the invention of the McCormick reaper he lifted from the brow of his father, Robert McCormick, the laurel which genius had placed there, and also took from the memory of his parent the honors which history gladly would have paid him, in the view of other members of the family who have set out to right what they believe to have been a wrong.

"We, the descendants of Robert McCormick, claim that by his great contributions to the arts and crafts in the contest for human honors he has won the golden chalice, gaining the victor's crown, and earned a place immortal in the Hall of Fame."

That is the contention made by the descendants of Robert McCormick, who died in 1846, and to sustain it they have collected and published a series of letters, statements and affidavits, all tending to show that Robert McCormick, and not his son Cyrus H., was the inventor of the McCormick reaper.

Gives Invention to Son.

From this evidence it appears that the father, after many years of experiments, built a successful reaper in 1831; that during several years thereafter he manufactured and sold, with the aid of his son Cyrus, a large number of these machines; that at the urgent request of his wife, when his last years were coming on, he gave the invention to his oldest son, the understanding being that all of the children should share in the profits, and that in 1834 Cyrus H. McCormick obtained letters patent on this invention.

It is shown also that in later years Cyrus H. asserted his father's inventions were failures; that he (Cyrus) built a successful reaper in 1831, and that it was that machine which was patented. Other members of the family, however, claim Cyrus H. is supported only by his own statements, while the other children of Robert, several other relatives and neighbors and acquaintances of the father attest to their belief that Robert McCormick was the real inventor of the reaper.

John T. Campbell of the Soldiers' home at Lafayette, Ind., however, says the first reaper was a failure and that Cyrus should be given credit for remedying its defects and producing a successful machine.

First Reaper a Failure?

"I have a statement from an eyewitness of the trial of the reaper on the farm of Captain Humphreys in Virginia," says Mr. Campbell. "My informant was John Ott, a wealthy farmer who died some ten years ago near Rockville, Parke county, Ind., over eighty years of age. He said the elder McCormick was the inventor of the reaper and that he was a blacksmith. At the trial the machine would start off all right and for about ten feet would cut the straws clean. Then it would begin to clog and pull the straws up by the roots, and at two rods it would choke completely. Several trials were made, and the reaper failed that morning, when the neighboring visiting farmers went home."

"The elder McCormick was so disappointed and chagrined that he was taken sick and then there abandoned the machine. His son Cyrus, who was assisting, saw what the mistake of construction was and the next year remedied it, and from that time the reaper was a success."

"The mistake was that the proper proportion of gearing was missed, so that the machine traveled a little faster than the sickle could cut; hence the ultimate choking and pulling up the straw."

Mrs. Toney explains, "The babies of that time, among the members of our race, were wrapped in buckskin after their birth, which was achieved without the attendance, of course, of any licensed physician, as such were few and far between, and very hard to be induced to come to the distant tepees, even in cases of what were considered much more serious emergencies."

Drowning of Sailors Unavoidable It Is Said.

New York, Oct. 7.—It will be several days before there is an end of the official investigation into the disaster of Saturday night, when fifteen or more sailors from the New Hampshire lost their lives in the North river, but the verdict of the board of inquiry is already foreshadowed. From an authoritative source it was learned that the board will hold the tragedy to have been the result of a combination of unforeseen and unpreventable circumstances, and no participant, whether victim or survivor, will be blamed for it.

Practically fifty witnesses, including all who are known to have escaped, have already been examined. This list includes Midshipman Godfrey Chevalier, the young officer in charge of the launch party.

Negroes Take Action Looking to Independence in Politics.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The executive committee of the Independence League has issued an address to the colored voters of the United States urging them to vote independently in politics. Negroes in the state of Ohio are asked to support Governor Harmon; negro voters in New Jersey to rally to the standard of Woodrow Wilson, while those in Indiana are asked to support John W. Kern for senator. The league also calls upon the negroes in the state of Massachusetts to support no candidate for the legislature who is not pledged to vote against Senator Lodge for re-election. The action taken was practically unanimous. Bishop Walters of New York presided. The league is said by its members to represent an enrollment of above 200,000 negro voters in the United States. The action was not entirely favorable to the Democrats. In Delaware, for example, and in West Virginia the members of the league, if they follow the advice of the executive committee, will vote the straight Republican ticket.

Sharpe after two months' absence, gave himself up to the Kansas City police and was brought back here by Sheriff Hathaway. Miss Whittaker, who rebuked her parents when she returned, now is anxious to see Sharpe go to jail and to return to her home, which she has not seen in four months. She is in the custody of the Humane Society.

His arrest took place in a south side saloon, and although he vigorously denied being one of the three men who were guilty of the robbery at LaSalle, the detectives assert that they have strong evidence against him.

The World-Renowned and Only Absolute Smoke Consuming Stove on Earth

THE WONDER OF THE AGE

THE HOT BLAST AIR-TIGHT FLORENCE

PATENTED JUNE 13, 1899

Patent Sustained by U. S. Circuit Court, July 5, 1905. Patent Sustained by U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, March 6, 1906.

Beware of Imitations and unscrupulous people who claim to have a stove like or just as good as the Florence. Do not be deceived by such false claims and find it out when too late. Examine the Florence carefully before you buy.

NO SMOKE! NO SOOT! NO DIRT! NO CLINKERS!
EVERYTHING IS CONSUMED.

At the End of a Season's Use With Soft Coal, There Will Be No Soot in the Pipe or Flue

THE ZENITH OF STOVE PERFECTION.

The only jointless leg bottom and base with full radiation and large ash pan that is on the market or has ever been made in the history of the stove industry.

The jointless leg bottom and base makes the stove air-tight below the grate, which is the only true fire keeping principle.

It will be as good a fire keeper twenty years hence as it is today.

The Hot Blast Air-Tight Florence will heat twice the space that can be heated by any other stove on earth at one-half the cost.

The only perfect floor heater that is or has ever been made.

All features are patented and no stove manufacturer, dealer or user can copy or use same for seventeen years from date of patent without incurring liability for an action for damages.

If the FLORENCE is operated according to directions:

The No. 21 will heat 1 small room all winter with 2 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 49 or No. 23 will heat 2 or 3 small rooms all winter with 2 1/2 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 51 or No. 25 will heat 3 or 4 rooms all winter with 3 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 53 or No. 27 will heat 5 rooms all winter with 4 tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 55 will heat a large store or school room with 6 tons of slack or lump coal. For a church, less coal will be required.

Will burn a ton less of hard coal than a hard coal Base Burner of the same size and heat twice the space.

be public economy, for if properly and carefully managed, the profits would be given to the city treasury, but in most cases about all the city ever gets from their public utilities is a larger tax rate to maintain and keep them in operation. The plant at Bedford is a good example for that city must now raise $3,736 to put their water system in good condition and besides that they have $40,000 in bonds which are due in 1913 and must be paid.

The taxpayers of Jackson county are an intelligent lot of people and know that they are not getting the worth of the money they pay into the county treasury. They know that they are paying sufficient road tax to keep the free gravel roads in good repair, but the roads are in a horrible condition throughout the county. The people know that it is extravagance to spend twice as much money in remodeling the court house as it originally cost. It is time to call a halt. It is time for the taxpayers to show their disapproval and the best way to do that is to vote against the men and the party that are standing for this waste and extravagance.

The action of the county commissioners in rescinding the order to expend an additional sum of $3,600 on the court house improvement was wise and timely. The taxpayers, those who must pay for this improvement, feel that the appropriation which has been made is sufficient and amply for all reasonable improvements which must be made.

There must be a feeling that Jackson county Democrats need bracing up as both Senator Shively and John W. Kern, two of the big guns of the party, are to be brought to the county. It is hoped that one of them may find time to say a few words on the subject of bribing legislators in senatorial contests.

The people of Jackson county want a clean, honest and economical administration of the county government. The candidate on the republican ticket will give just this kind of an administration, and the entire ticket should be elected.

When Governor Marshall said in a recent speech that the democratic party "fixed principles on great national issues" he was getting off one of his jokes.

INCREASE WAGES

Employees of I. C. & S. Traction Line
On Higher Scale.

The Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company has increased the wage scale for its employees. The first increase was given in the semi-monthly payment which has just been made.

Men who have been ten years in the employ of the company receive an advance of two cents on the hour, and all others one cent. The old men now receive 27 cents an hour and that of the other trainmen from 22 to 25 cents, according to the time of service.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 percent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy; they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c and 10c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

The funeral services of John Moening will be held at the home in the Sauer's neighborhood Sunday at 11 a. m. and at the church at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey Bottorff, Mrs. Anna Newhouse and Miss Maud Naylor went to Indianapolis this morning to remain until tomorrow.

Women's Autumn Suits and Coats

A sight well worth seeing is our choice collection of the new man tailored suits for autumn. Every suit is a splendid example of the man tailor's art. They come from famous Eastern makers, all of them showing a marked superiority in design and finish. In fact, our tailored suits are only equaled by those made by the best custom made tailors in the large Eastern fashion centers, who charge very high prices for the garments which they turn out. When you examine these suits, even casually, you will realize that they are exceptional values at the prices

$12.50, $18.50, $22.50 and $25.00

Among the New Coats

One could scarcely have a whim that could not be satisfied by this wonderfully varied assemblage of fashionable coats.

Styles, lengths, materials, colors, are so widely represented that a pleasing choice is a matter only of looking until it is found. Full length coats for women and misses, of mixed cloths, are extremely low priced at $5.00, $7.50, $9.75, $12.50 and Up.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1910

For twenty-five years John W. Kern has been making political speeches and from the first he has been a bitter partisan. In his speeches he always gets personal and says mean things about all men who are republicans. He has never been a vote-getter for the reason that he denounces every man who is not a democrat. His narrow party spirit is offensive to every thoughtful citizen. He is entirely too narrow to suit the people of Indiana. Time after time they have voted against him and will do so again.

Kern is in favor of cutting the whole tariff to a revenue basis only without delay and then if deemed necessary let the tariff commission determine scientifically whether the rates should be raised. In other words if the dose kills the business of the country and brings American labor to the level of cheap European labor then try to remedy the case. The voters of Indiana are enjoying prosperity under Republican policies and will hardly care to try the Kern experiment.

More than 25,000 cotton pickers are needed in north and middle western Texas to gather the cotton crop.

Edmund C. King of Portland, Ore., and Julia Dent Grant, daughter of U. S. Grant, jr., will be married tomorrow.

Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston was nominated for governor by the Massachusetts Democratic state convention.

The regular Democratic convention at Nashville nominated Senator R. I. Taylor for governor, vice Governor M. R. Patterson, who resigned the nomination recently.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, a distant relative of the former president, was nominated on the Democratic ticket for state senator in the Twenty-sixth New York district.

J. Howard Lowery, former assistant cashier of the Utica City National bank, has been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for embezzlement amounting to $124,000.

The Massachusetts state Republican convention was in session only two hours. Everything went through as arranged, Governor Draper and other incumbents being renominated.

A shortage of $150,000 has been discovered on the books of the Atlas Tack company of Fair Haven, Mass., which is owned by the estate of the late Henry H. Rogers. The shortage is laid at the door of the late George W. Weymouth, president and general manager of the company, who was killed about a month ago in an automobile accident.

NEW REPUBLIC HOLDS ITS OWN

Quiet Has Been Restored In Portuguese Capital.

ORDER SUCCEEDS REVOLUTION

The New Government Has Appointed Governors in All Provinces, and It Is Thought Republic's Triumph Is Secure in the Country—The Royal Yacht With the Fleeing Royal Family Reported at Gibraltar.

Vigo, Spain, Oct. 7.—Passengers on the steamer Asturias, which has arrived here from Lisbon, say that 1,000 were killed and several thousand wounded in the uprising there.

Gibraltar, Oct. 7.—Between 11 o'clock last night and midnight this morning the Portuguese royal yacht Amelie, with King Manuel, the infant Alfonso and Queen Amelie aboard, arrived here. All the members of the royal family landed and went to the residence of the governor.

Lisbon, Oct. 7.—The government held its first formal council yesterday. It is thought that the republic's triumph is secure in the country. The government has appointed governors in all provinces. Several royalist officers are under arrest. It is reported that Campolide, in the outskirts of the capital, was ruined by an armed mob and the professors seized. President Braga made a tour of the city in an auto, accompanied by President-Elect Fonseca of Brazil. The British minister has requested an interview of Senhor Machado, minister of foreign affairs.

Everything is quiet in the city. The English residents and tourists are safe and well. The consulates, banks and custom houses are closed, but the situation is improving. Activity in the harbor is being resumed. It is stated in financial circles that Queen Amelie long foresaw the catastrophe that befell her house and transferred the bulk of her fortune to foreign banks, mainly English, some time ago.

VOTED IT DOWN

Bishops Oppose Deputies in Episcopal Convention.

Cincinnati, Oct. 7.—The house of deputies at the general conference of the Protestant Episcopal church, adopted an amendment to the constitution providing for the election by any diocese of one or more suffragan bishops. The house of bishops voted it down. A conference committee was appointed for further consideration of the matter. The house of bishops also failed to confirm another proposed amendment making the office of the presiding bishop an elective one with a term of six years.

Carlinville, Ill., Oct. 7.—The inquest over the bodies of the Illinois traction wreck victims is in progress here with Coroner Morris Karnes of Macoupin county presiding. No change has been made in the death list total of the disaster near Staunton, Ill., Tuesday. The total remains at thirty-six with injured at thirty-one.

TRIED TO KILL PRINCE TSAI

Vigilant Secret Service Man Prevented Assassination.

YOUNG CHINA PARTY FOILED

Member of Organization Sought Life of Visiting Chinese Prince as Latter Alighted From Train at Oakland Ferry, but Secret Service Agent Moffatt Was on the Job and Would-Be Assassin Was Quickly Quieted.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—An attempt to assassinate Prince Tsai Hsun, head of the imperial Chinese naval commission to the United States, as he left his special train at Oakland Mole last evening, was frustrated by Secret Service Agent Harry Moffatt, who arrested George Fong, a California-born Chinese and a member of the Young China party, while drawing a loaded revolver from his pocket.

Fong was among the immense throng which lined the station platform to greet the prince, and but for the fact that the train failed to stop at the usual place in the trainshed, he would have been successful.

Moffatt had been previously warned that an attempt might be made on the life of the distinguished visitor, and was on the lookout, Fong having been pointed out to him as a leading member of the Young China party. As the huge engine passed the spot where it would usually stop, Fong ran with the crowd in an effort to be on the ground when the prince landed. He took off his gloves when he was seized by Moffatt and hastened from the ferryboat, while the prince and his party were escorted to the naval tug Unadilla. The arrest was made so quietly that no one of the large crowd, either with the prince or among the commuters, knew of it.

Fong made no secret of his intentions when questioned, and declared he intended to rid his country of one of its enemies. He declared that as a member of the Young China party, he considered it his duty to kill the prince and his aide and assist in the progress of the movement to free China of the rule of Manchu.

THE COLD SHOULDER

Was Turned Toward Governor Warner by Michigan Republicans.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—In Senator Smith's keynote speech at the Republican state convention here, not once was the name of Governor Warner mentioned. The resolutions carefully abstained from mentioning either the governor or his administration. The governor was in the hall, but not on the platform. Prolonged cheering followed the mention of both Taft's and Roosevelt's names.

In the platform the Payne-Aldrich tariff was commended for articles put on the free list, and for the revenues it has produced. It is not indorsed, however, as a carrying out of campaign promises. The president and congress are strongly indorsed.

The following ticket was nominated: Governor, Charles S. Osborne; lieutenant governor, John Q. Ross; secretary of state, F. C. Martindale; state treasurer, Albert E. Sleeper; attorney general, Franz C. Kuhn; supreme court justice, John E. Bird; auditor general, O. B. Fuller.

THEY DENY IT ALL

Both Browne and Broderick Testify Before Committee.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Lee O'Neil Browne, accused of bribing Illinois legislators to vote for William Lorimer for United States senator, and acquitted recently of that charge in the criminal court, took the witness stand at the senatorial investigation and for the first time publicly began a denial of the charges so often made against him.

The minority leader began his testimony with disputing evidence given by legislators who accuse him of bribery. He either denied all the charges of bribery or evaded by answering, "I don't remember."

Absolute denial of the payment of $2,500 or any other sum to State Senator Holstlaw, or any other legislator in connection with the election of Lorimer was made by State Senator John Broderick. Broderick underwent a severe cross-examination, but remained unshaken.

CARDINAL VANNUTELLI

Papal Legate Who Celebrated Mass for New York Children.

© 1910, by American Press Association.

A GREAT PROCESSION OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

Eight Thousand of Them Attend Mass at St. Patrick's.

New York, Oct. 7.—The children of the parochial schools in the archdiocese had the big part yesterday in the impressive services with which the consecration of St. Patrick's cathedral is being celebrated. Nearly 8,000 of them attended pontifical high mass at which Cardinal Vannutelli was the celebrant, and at which Cardinal Gibbons was present, and added their voices to the choir in the Gregorian chants.

The mass for the children was the first held in the cathedral since its consecration, since the mass celebrated on Wednesday was a part of the consecration rite. It was Archbishop Farley's desire that the children have this unusual part in the celebration, and the honor was their because of his planning.

Probably never before in this country and perhaps never since the great religious processions of children in the middle ages have so many boys and girls taken part in such a service. The youngsters were well drilled and marched to their places under the direction of their leaders without confusion.

Today's observances in the celebration included another imposing spectacle when the members of the various orders of the archdiocese marched to the cathedral, where a pontifical mass for the orders was celebrated by Cardinal Logue. In the procession were orders of nuns seldom seen, among them nuns who observe the perpetual adoration. There were monks of the Franciscan, Dominican, Benedictine, Carmelite and Passionist orders, Christian brothers and presentation nuns, nuns of the Good Shepherd, sisters of mercy and of charity and nuns of St. Joseph and the Ursulines.

McGowan Sentenced For Life.

Terrace Haute, Ind., Oct. 7.—The jury in the case of William McGowan, a negro, charged with the murder of former Chief of Police George M. The average farmer is probably not aware of the fact that an average mule sells for $10 more than horses. Such is the case and the price has been gradually rising for a number of years. There has never been what would be called an overproduction of mules, while on the other hand the market has often been unable to supply the demand.

The water from some of the smaller creeks south of here backed up to the edge of the cross ties on the Pennsylvania road Thursday and it was feared that the rails would be covered and the traffic delayed. The flood waters have receded, however, and no serious damage was done to the road.

Beacon Shoes

are shoes with a "conscience—honest all through." You don't have to take our word for this fact. You can find it out by actual experience. The Beacon appeals to you at sight, because it is really a swell shoe. It makes your feet grateful, because it gives perfect ease in any and all positions.

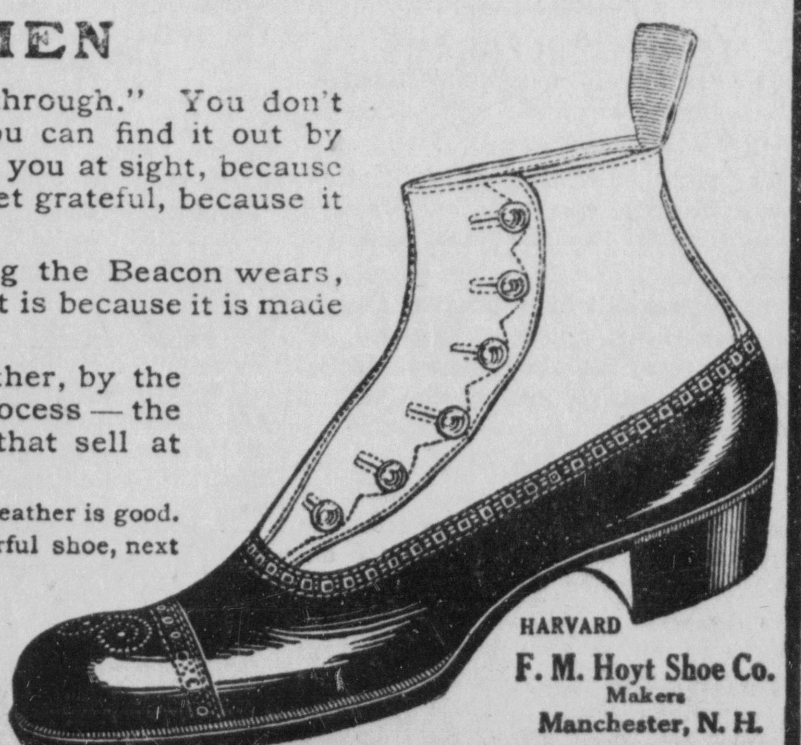

You will be surprised to learn how long the Beacon wears, and how many hard knocks it stands. That is because it is made as a good shoe ought to be made.

Union workmen put the Beacon together, by the genuine Goodyear Welt Hand-Sewed process—the very same process that is applied to shoes that sell at $4.00 to $8.00.

You only need to touch the Beacon to tell that the leather is good. Just step in at a Beacon dealers and see this wonderful shoe, next time you are passing. He won't urge you to buy. We only want you to know how good the Beacon really is.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 9, 1910

The Parable of the Talents.—Lesson: Matt. 25: 14-30.

GOLDEN TEXT:—His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy lord. Matt. 25: 21.

This lesson, like the last one, is found only in Matthew, but a little earlier in these last days of His earthly ministry, about the time that He brought salvation to the house of Zaccheus, He spake a parable because He was nigh to Jerusalem and because they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear (Luke xix, 11). These two parables cover the same period of time and teach virtually the same truths; they cover the time of the nobleman's absence in a far country to receive for himself a kingdom and to return, and during his absence the servants are expected to make diligent use of the pounds or talents with which they have been intrusted that they may give account of their stewardship at his return. "Occupy till I come" is the word to every servant (Luke xix, 14). As both John and Jesus and the twelve and the seventy had all preached that the kingdom was at hand they were all expecting it, not understanding that, Messiah being rejected by the nation and the rulers having determined to kill Him, the kingdom must wait till His return and the age of "the mystery of the kingdom" run its course. These parables tell of service in this present age and bring before us another phase of the readiness to meet Him at His coming. The redemption clothing, His righteousness, makes us fit and ready to meet Him at any time (Col. i, 12-14), but we are redeemed in order to serve Him, and for this service there will be rewards, and it is His desire that we should receive a full reward and not be ashamed before Him at His coming (II John viii, I John ii, 28; Rev. xxi, 12).

In the one parable each servant receives a pound; in the other each receives talents according to his ability. Every believer without exception receives the Holy Spirit in some measure, but the special gifts of the Spirit are given to every one severally as He will (I Cor. xii, 4-11, 18). This passage helps in some measure to understand both the pounds and the talents. There is something for every believer to do and bear, and it has long been a comfort to me to know that everything has been appointed for each individual beforehand (Eph. ii, 10), and I have only to walk with Him in that which He appoints for us. I am a so comforted by remembering that He expects no service for which He has not given the ability (I Pet. iv, 10, 11). It is the greatest folly to consider others and the service they are rendering and aim to do as they are doing, for the Lord appoints "to every man his work" (Mark xiii, 34). And "every one of us shall give account of himself to God" (Rom. xiv, 12). We are here as His witnesses to manifest His life, to show forth His praises, to prove ourselves faithful stewards of His manifold grace, to serve the living and true God (Acts i, 8; II Cor. iv, 10) and our position in His kingdom will depend upon our faithfulness here.

In the parable of the pounds the servants testified "Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds," or "Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds," and the reward for their faithfulness, not success, was authority over ten cities or five cities, conveying at least a suggestion of our reigning with Him over the earth (Rev. v, 10). In the parable of the talents, the servants say, "I have gained five talents more," or "I have gained two other talents." To each of these the commendation was just the same, for each had been equally faithful according to the ability given them. "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord" (verses 21, 23). Note again that it is faithfulness, not success, that is commended. Compare xxiv, 45. There is here also the thought of ruling, but what the joy of the Lord can mean who can tell? We cannot even imagine much about either. It will all be far beyond our utmost thought. It will be His exceeding abundantly above all we can ask or think. Listen to His prayer, "Father, I will that they also whom Thou hast given Me be with Me where I am, that they may behold My glory which Thou hast given Me" (John xvii, 24). And not only behold but share His glory, for He said (verse 22), "The glory which Thou gavest Me I have given them, that they may be one even as we are one."

Note that it was the pound that gained the pounds, while the other said "I have gained other talents." Both are correct, for while we work it is God working in us. We have both in I Cor. xv, 10, "I labored more abundantly than they all, yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me." It is evident that the unfaithful servant was a mere professor and knew not his Lord. Imagine a Christian saying to the Lord, "I know that thou art an hard man" (24), or, "I feared thee because thou art an austere man" (Luke xix, 21). His doom shows that he was never a true servant, for no true child of God can perish (John iii, 16, v, 25). As to the phrase or saying, "I know him that hath not been taken away even that which he shall" (verse 25), it is explained by Luke viii, 18.

Paquin has exceeded even his exquisite skill in the charming costume of his which is illustrated today. The gown is of blue chiffon, a bright dark tone draped over the same shade of satin. The skirt finishes in a deep band of blue satin ornamented below the knee with a choux of black satin confined by a buckle.

The upper half of the waist follows the approved kimono lines and is gathered into a heavy embroidery of pale shades of heliotrope which extends below the waist, terminating in two points on the hips and confined by a black satin girdle with a jet buckle. The striking hat is of blue satin, with a high top crown, around which is draped a black band of feathers terminating in a wing set at an acute and modish angle.

Actress in an Airship.

Mr. Stanley Cooke, an English theatrical manager, was considerably perturbed recently by the contents of a letter received from Miss Ola Humphrey, his leading lady.

The letter stated that she proposed going from Munich to Oberammergau in order to witness the Passion play and that the first twenty-five miles would be accomplished in an airship, the remainder in a motor. The letter also contained instructions in case of an accident.

Mr. Cooke immediately telegraphed, begging Miss Humphrey not to attempt the flight, but it was too late. The adventurous young lady, accompanied by five gentlemen, had already started. The voyage proved a success, and Mr. Cooke's fears were allayed by the receipt of an enthusiastic telegram announcing the safe arrival of the party.

Miss Humphrey, when interviewed after her trip, admitted she felt very nervous as the time approached for the start, and as the airship rose and the earth apparently receded the whole of her past life flashed through her brain, but this soon gave place to a feeling of great exhilaration as the dirigible sailed majestically over an ever changing panorama.

Miss Ola Humphrey, who is a Californian actress new to London, is so enchanted with her experience that she has decided to take up aeroplaning directly after the run of "The Man From Mexico" and has already written to Mr. Grahame-White with a view to being instructed in the art of flying.

BOSTON TRYING RUBBER RAISING

New Use Planned For Abandoned New England Farms.

CHINESE TREE EXPERIMENT.

Thousand Industries Ready to Purchase Output of New Source of Supply if Successful—French Scientists Consider Eucommia Planting Practicable, but Gauls Ignore Hint.

The possibility of raising a rubber bearing tree of central Asia in the United States is being tested at the Arnold arboretum at Boston. If the experiment succeeds botanists who are watching it say they see no reason why any owner of a rocky hillside in the eastern part of the United States should not set out an orchard of rubber trees which would grow with reasonable rapidity and yield a hard, gummy substance which has caoutchouc as its base and in character appears to stand midway between the allied commodities of rubber and gutta percha.

The prospect, they assert, is particularly pleasing from the point of view of possessors of abandoned farms, who could in no other way make their acres so profitable. A thousand and one industries stand ready to welcome a new source of crude rubber, and this, the scientists believe, may be found in the seeds and cuttings of a little group of trees which have already made a good start in the New England climate.

Found in Cold Region.

Of this Chinese rubber tree, botanically known as Eucommia ulmoides, a number of good specimens were secured by E. T. Wilson, an explorer in the arboretum's Asiatic expedition of 1907-9.

The examples with which the Arnold arboretum is experimenting were found at an altitude of about 3,500 feet on the slopes of the great mountain range against which the Yangtse-kiang impinges itself in the neighborhood of Fang, in the province of Hapeh. The latitude of the region is about 32 degrees, the climate and topographical conditions not unlike those of the mountainous districts of New York and New England.

On its native hillside the tree grows to an average height of about twenty-five feet. According to experience in China and at the Jardin Colonial, Paris, it is propagated more readily from cuttings than from seeds.

The leaves are smaller than those of the familiar rubber plant and are shaped more like those of the elm or beech, but they have the peculiar gloss characteristic of trees and shrubs which secrete caoutchouc.

For there is no doubt of the existence of caoutchouc in every part of the eucommia except the wood. Although rubber has not been made from it commercially, the fact that it might be so made has been well established by British and French experts.

Product Is Satisfactory.

The product is of a dark brown color with metallic reflections on the surface. Plunged into hot water, it becomes soft again, stretches out in flakes like gold beater's skin and under pressure will take the impress of metal. In cooling it loses its suppleness and becomes quite hard.

The existence of a rubber bearing tree which grows in a temperate climate was first brought to the attention of European scientists about 1888 by Dr. A. Henry, who sent to the Royal Botanical gardens, Kew, some leaves, flowers and seed pods of a tree which he had found under cultivation in central China. He noted that it was said to grow wild in the mountainous districts to the northward.

At the arboretum in Boston several fair sized saplings of eucommia which arrived from China were set out. The end of the first summer found them apparently well established. They are used to cold winters, so there is no apparent reason why they should not succeed in eastern Massachusetts as well as scores of other importations from the world's greatest nursery. Even if they should not get along well so near the sea there remains the possibility that they may be adapted to growing on Appalachian mountain sides.

FLIER INNOCENT SMUGGLER.

Frenchman Crosses Belgian Border and Returns With Cigar Gifts.

The first case of smuggling by aeroplane was recorded in France recently when Nieuport won a cross country race at the Maubeuge flying meet, near the Belgian frontier. He landed at Grandreng and returned with flowers and cigars with which he had been presented by young Belgian women.

The aviator distributed the cigars among the notables present, who included a French customs officer from the head office. The latter automobile to Maubeuge later in order to satisfy himself that Nieuport's aeroplane was not prepared for contraband work.

JACK HORNER PIE IN HALLOWEEN DRESS.

A Halloween party without a Jack Horner surprise pie would be Hamlet with the Dane and Ophelia and even the ghost left out, so barren would the good old day be without this standby. Made of crape paper and holding little prizes and favors, this novelty is sure to be a success with children and grownups alike. In the pie illustrated each little witch, with her bright white spotted dress and apron, red cardboard hat and tiny broom, is attached to a string at the end of which "is a suitable favor. Weird red 'devils' and ugly black cats are perched on the handle of the basket.

College Training For Women.

Rev. Marion Leroy Burton, the new president of Smith college, who has recently returned from a year's travel abroad, during which he studied European educational institutions at close range, is enthusiastic over the more universal demand for college training for women.

"No one can say how much greater Abraham Lincoln would have been had he had the advantages of a college education," said President Burton.

"I believe that in this modern age every boy and girl should be trained for college. It is a fallacy to assert that in many instances valuable time is lost in college. That is not and never can be true.

"The women of foreign lands are realizing more and more the value of a college training and in common with college women everywhere are progressing in the desire for better physical training, realizing that with good health comes the power to work mentally. The women on this side have their college sports just as the boys and girls are trained for college from early youth, while abroad a college course is more in the nature of an event."

Little Misses' School Clothes.

The small girl nowadays never wears the cutdawns of her older sister as she used to some seasons ago. Probably the changed conditions of things has been brought about by the cheap and smartly cut children's garments that the shops are carrying and the many stylish designs for simple and suitable clothes that the pattern people are getting out—such easy lit-

The frock pictured is of red serge, a somewhat dressy affair, trimmed with buttons of Persian covered silk edged with red velvet. The tie is of black satin and the belt of black patent leather.

CURED TO STAY CURED.

How a Seymour Citizen Found Complete Freedom from Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—From any disease of the kidneys, Be cured to stay cured. Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.

Seymour people testify. Here's one case of it:

Mrs. Lydia Owens, 426 Jackson street, Seymour, Ind., says: "Several years ago I had pains in the small of my back and was also subject to headaches. My kidneys were badly disordered and I attributed my trouble to the failure of these organs to do their work properly. When I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills, I immediately procured a supply and their use corrected my trouble. I know of other people who have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and praise them as highly as I do." (Statement given in 1906.)

No Trouble Since.

On April 14, 1910, Mrs. Owens was interviewed and she said: "During the years that have passed since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me, I have been entirely free from kidney trouble. I am constantly recommending this remedy."

Ambergris.

For many hundreds of years ambergris has been employed in sacerdotal rites of the church, and with fragrant gums it was formerly burned in the apartments of royalty. To some extent it was used as a medicine and as a flavoring for certain dishes. Nowadays ambergris is utilized almost exclusively by perfumers in the preparation of fine scents.

Saved from the Grave.

"I had about given up hope, after nearly four years of suffering from a severe lung trouble," writes Mrs. M. L. Dix, of Clarksville, Tenn. "Often the pain in my chest would be almost unbearable and I could not do any work, but Dr. King's New Discovery has made me feel like a new person. It's the best medicine made for the throat and lungs." Obsolete coughs, stubborn colds, hay fever, la grippe, asthma, croup, bronchitis and hemorrhages, hoarseness and whooping cough yield quickly to this wonderful medicine. Try it. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

MORE HOGS SOLD.

Warsaw Man Clears Up $1,679.40 On Sixty Porkers.

Charles A. Hughes who resides near Warsaw, has just sold one of the biggest bunch of hogs that have been marketed in Warsaw this year. The one shipment consisted of sixty head of hogs, averaging 311 pounds and making a total weight of 18,660 pounds. The price paid was $9 per hundred pounds, making a total of $1,679.40 for the sixty porkers, or an average of $28 per hog. The hogs were bought by Claven Gilliam and shipped to East Buffalo, N. Y.—Warsaw Times.

The Democrats may talk low prices to Mr. Hughes, but he is not likely to listen.

BLOOD DISEASES CONTAGIOUS TROUBLES

Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly permeates the system than any other disease. Its infectious virus contaminates every corpuscle and tissue of the circulation, and for this reason its symptoms are of a varied nature. When it enters the blood it is but a short time until the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the skin becomes spotted, rashes and eruptions appear on the body, sores and ulcers break out, the hair falls, and frequently nails on hands and feet thicken and come off. Mineral medicines which simply shut the poison up in the system should be avoided, for when such treatment is left off the old disease will break out again, often worse than before. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison permanently, and it does so because it thoroughly purifies the blood. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and drives out the last trace of the destructive germs, adds richness and vigor to the circulation and allows it to nourish the diseased portions of the body back to health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, without a particle of mineral, and its vegetable ingredients always hasten the cure by toning up the stomach and digestive members. Home Treatment book and any medical advice free to all who write.

Points
For Mothers

"A baby's grandmother is often its worst enemy."

So a splendid trained nurse who makes her specialty the bringing back to health of sick babies told me the other day, says Ruth Cameron.

It was a pretty harsh indictment of that class of personage whose very name evokes a thought of tenderness, so naturally I demanded an explanation. She gave it.

"Grandmothers are the worst enemies of our modern methods—not all of them, of course, but some. Because their babies lived and grew up in spite of what mistakes they made they try to have their daughters make the same mistakes."

"There is no doubt about it that modern methods have reduced infant mortality immensely, and, though of course it's true that plenty of babies grew up into healthy children with the old, careless methods, a baby brought up in the modern way has twice the chance to grow up that they did."

"But the grandmothers don't see it that way. They say all their babies grew up, or if one or two died they would have died anyway, no matter what precautions were taken, and they tell their daughters that all this sterilizing and boiling and the rest of the things that we are trying to teach them is all nonsense."

"Most of them talk behind our backs, but once in awhile one of them speaks right out to me, so I know about what they say."

"Here are a few samples:
"This feeding a baby every three hours to the minute is all tommyrot. Why, when Jennie was a baby I fed her whenever she cried, and she doesn't look very peaked now, does she?"

"This boiling of nipples and bottles is perfect nonsense. I never boiled a thing, and I brought up five children and lost only one by cholera infantum, and you needn't tell me any child gets cholera infantum from not having its nipples boiled."

"Waking a child up to feed him is the silliest thing I ever heard of. He has been undernourished and needs the nourishment? Nonsense. I had eight children, and I always let them sleep as long as they would."

"That's the sort of thing they are continually saying, and as some of them have more influence than we do the result is that many of our most important instructions are neutralized."

Try Mrs. Wiggs' Way.

It was "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," says an exchange, who used compliments instead of spankings in bringing up her children, and there is an up to date mother who has two very well behaved children who says that the keynote of her success with them is that she says "do." Instead of "don't" when her youngsters are in need of correction or direction. The consistent following of this simple principle requires thought and quick wit. The first impulse when there is mischief or disorder being made or some other reprehensible business going on is to cry "don't," but "do," as illustrated by drawing attention to the opposite of a child's actions awakens interest and is far more effective in correction. "I am sure the idea of saying 'do' instead of 'don't' is the right one," says this mother. "Of course it is not always possible to observe this rule, but whenever one can I believe in the substitution of the positive for the negative. In other words, the child's mind is given something definite to work upon. No child likes to be nagged, and constantly saying 'don't' amounts to nagging."

When Selfishness Is Justice.

Selfishness to a certain point is not only allowable, but commendable. The mother who, meaning to be unselfish, allows her husband and children to ride over her roughshod is not only preparing trouble for herself, but, still worse, trouble for those whom she is spoiling day by day. She would be doing her duty more truly by her family if she remembered that she, as well as they, had certain rights which must be respected and preferences which must be honored.

A family is a little kingdom in which the mother and father are sovereigns, who must rule wisely, rendering justice to all, themselves among the number, if the kingdom is to remain happy and prosperous. Mother, as queen, must fit herself to stand comparison with other queens, so that her growing sons and daughters may think proudly and fondly that "no other chap's—or girl's—mother is fit to hold a candle to ours."

Our duty to ourselves begins when we first realize that the world contains an interesting person called "I" and continues as long as that person remains in this troublesome world.

Comfort For Baby.

Use the strings in baby's slip and nightgowns, and there will be no red marks from buttons on baby's neck. The lower half of a man's woolen shirt makes a warm undershirt for a child to wear around the house.

Prison Congress Delegates
Discover Better Conditions

ALTHOUGH the international prison congress was organized more than thirty years ago at the suggestion of the American government, it has never held sessions in this country, and therefore the foreign delegates now on tour preparatory to assembling at Washington to observe the great changes that have come over American prison methods in the last fifteen years.

Eighty years ago De Tocqueville, author of "Democracy in America," made an extensive investigation of American jails and prisons and afterward wrote a book, "On the Penitentiary System in the United States." His conclusions were that the prisons and jails of this country were the worst in the world.

The influence of John Howard, the great prison reformer, however, had been more felt and was more effective in Europe than in the United States, and in the most advanced of European countries considerable changes in prison architecture, discipline and theory of punishment had been brought about.

Improvement Is Recent.

Even up to a comparatively few years ago the prisons and prison system of the United States were not only archaic and futile, but were a positive menace to society. Immense sums of money were spent on them, but with a result the very opposite of that expected. They did not reform criminals; they made more.

Architecturally the prisons were constructed to be as gloomy as possible. Prisoners were denied sunlight, their cells were small and dark and filled with the damp, reeking, pestilential odors of insanitary surroundings. The consequence was that in many of the prisons fully one-half of the inmates contracted tuberculosis, not to mention other diseases.

Treatment of prisoners was of a character now regarded with horror. The law did not then aim, as it does now, to give the criminal every possible chance to redeem himself and to classify prisoners according to the degree of their offenses. The sole intent of the law was to inflict cruel punishment upon the belief that the severer the penalty the more effective the lesson would be.

No discriminations were made in regard to age or sex or the nature of the crime. The law contained no provisions for indeterminate sentence or for separation of young offenders from old. Offenses that are now looked upon with some leniency were then punished with long terms in prison.

Rawhide For Talkative.

Fifty years ago it was customary to immerse prisoners in solitary confinement. Condemned to incessant inactivity and silence, without proper air or nourishment and lacking work to strengthen their bodies and engage their minds, many of them became unbalanced. In fact, a rule prevailed in many prisons that if a prisoner presumed to speak on any occasion he was to be lashed with a rawhide whip.

Prisoners were not allowed to write letters or to communicate with any member of their family. The violation of this particular rule, however, was frequently winked at by wardens and jailers. Investigations of the time showed that if a prisoner had money he could often secure favors not allowed to those lacking the necessary price.

These methods resulted in making prisoners ferocious and implanting in them a hatred of the society that misused them. They were not terrified into self reform. Many of them, as the records show, came out of prison inveterate criminals to be returned soon for some new offense. The narrow, unsympathetic laws virtually drove many of them to steal again.

When a convict was released all that the law allowed him to start life again was $3. Of course with the brand of the prison upon him—and public opinion was then very severe—it was rare that he could get employment.

"To starve or to steal again is too often the only alternative," wrote John W. Edmonds, president of the New York board of prison inspectors in 1844. If the released convict did steal he was nearly always sent back to prison for life as an incorrigible criminal.

Even Jailed Complainants.

There were no detention jails and no reformatories. Innocent and guilty, men and boys, girls and women, all were crowded together, although there were occasions when the sexes were separated. Even witnesses were required to give bail.

If a poor man or woman were cheated or robbed and could not give bail

TARASCON TO HONOR DAUDET.

Townsmen of Mighty Tartarin Find Pride Conquers Sulks.

The town of Tarascon has decided to erect a statue to Alphonse Daudet. For years after the publication of the first "Tartarin" book in 1872 the hitherto unknown town sulks over its sudden celebrity. Then tourists began visiting it by the thousands, demanding to see Tartarin's house, Costecalde's gunshop and other sites described in the book.

Now Tarascon feels it her duty to show her gratitude.

to insure appearance at the trial as a complaining witness the law compelled the authorities to lock up such persons in jail. Thousands of cases occurred in which complainants had to spend a year or two years in prison.

Children's courts were not thought of. Mischievous boys who had committed some trivial breach of law were associated with hardened criminals. The consequence was obvious. The contact turned into criminals large numbers of boys who under present methods are easily reclaimed and converted into good, industrious citizens. While in the jails and prisons these boys quickly learned the speech, tricks, ways and habits of the criminal inmates.

In New York fifteen years ago at least 14,000 children were arrested during the year and in Chicago about the same number. Many of the boys passed through the corridors of the Tombs and the Cook county jail to come out thieves.

Old Methods Supplanted.

Much of this has been radically changed, especially in the last fifteen years. Cruel methods and principles of law have been largely abolished. The old style prison, sepulchral and deadly, has gone or is fast going. The separation of men offenders from women is not so recent an improvement as that of dissociating the mentally feeble from the mentally strong, the same from the insane, the old from the young. Those held for trial are no longer confined with those convicted of grave crimes. The accidental lawbreaker is not indiscriminately thrown in with the habitual criminal.

One of the greatest changes in the treatment of prisoners has taken place in the last five years. In 1905 Dr. J. B. Ransom, physician to Dannemora prison, New York, showed that from 40 to 60 per cent of all deaths among the prison population in the United States was due to tuberculosis.

Many prisons have been of ancient build; the jails have been particularly unhealthy; the cells, Dr. Ransom reported, in nearly all of the prisons were damp and so constructed as to be virtually impervious to sunlight. These, together with other factors, have been the chief causes.

But most of the states are either now getting rid of these old pest-holes or are preparing to. Sing Sing prison, a breeding place for tuberculosis, will soon be a memory. Its successor, built out in the country, will contain when fully completed every facility for sunshine, as pure air as is possible in a prison, healthy workshops and sanitary and disinfecting apparatus.

The modern plan is to construct prisons with numerous outstretching wings, so that every cell can be penetrated by sunshine. Illinois, Minnesota, Oklahoma and many other states are adopting this plan. The federal prisons also are now looked upon as relics. Many of them, such as Leavenworth, where two prisoners often bunk in a single cell, are not now regarded as anything more than makeshifts pending the erection in the near future of modern institutions.

Prisoners Given a Chance.

Fourteen years ago a few states began passing "indeterminate sentence" laws. Indiana was one of the first, and the act passed by its legislature may be taken as an example of the new method. The effect of this law was to take away from courts and juries all power of pronouncing arbitrary sentences, except in cases of treason and of murder in the first or second degree; otherwise the authority of courts was confined to giving the "indeterminate sentence."

The indiscriminate mixing of prisoners was abolished. The law provided that those between the ages of sixteen and thirty upon whom the "indeterminate sentence" was passed were to be sentenced to the custody of the trustees of the reformatory. Prisoners over thirty years of age were to be sentenced to the state prison.

In New York, Massachusetts, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and many other states a probation and a parole system has also been established. Instead of being harsh punitive instruments, devoid of mercy or consideration, courts and prisons now have largely become corrective institutions.

One of the greatest reforms has been the establishment of children's courts and the adoption of a basic principle of law that no child under sixteen years of age shall be considered or treated as a criminal and that no child under that age shall be arrested, indicted, convicted, imprisoned or punished as a criminal.

This is a tremendous progression over fifteen years ago, when it was not an uncommon occurrence to find children of thirteen and fourteen years serving sentences in prison.

ELECTRICITY DOUBLES CITY.

Niagara Falls Traces Growth to Manufacturing Plants.

The population of Niagara Falls has more than doubled in the last ten years. The power plants situated there develop about 300,000 electric horsepower; three new manufacturing plants are being constructed, and additions are being made to two existing plants.

The increase in the working forces in these plants in the next year will approximate 1,500 men, who with their families will probably add about 7,000 population to the city.
